Prophetic Encouragement from Richard Elias James

December 25, 2025

Prophetic declaration of dominion and acceleration, hear this spiritually clearly: The urgency of this season is not sudden! Because it is a calling. You have been chosen to advance, and what has risen against you is only confirming that Heaven has already approved your next level. The pressure you feel is not crushing you; it is building you. You are being molded into a person capable of authority, influence, and lasting victory. Because I declare that the cycle of delay is now breaking.

Those who once opposed you will now begin to support you. Doors that refused to open will suddenly respond to your presence. The ground that seemed hard and firm will now recognize your footsteps. You are not chasing success! Because joy is seeking you. The season of questioning is ending. The season of speaking clearly is beginning. Your patience has activated momentum, and your commitment has brought speed. What took years to fight will be resolved in moments.

This is the time when hidden strength becomes visible. Because you are emerging with your understanding sharpened, your courage strengthened, and your vision clear. Battles did not exhaust you! They kept you disciplined. Storms did not scatter you! They lined you up. You are stepping into command, not confusion; authority, not survival. Because I announced a sudden change! Because where opposition turns into opportunity, where fatigue turns into new fire, and where what once tried to silence you now amplifies your voice.

You are no longer being trained! And you are being set free. Stand strong. Move forward. Speak boldly. This is not just a season of winning! This is a defining moment. This change is irreversible.

Victory is upon us. Because now you're walking in it!
